RESULTS ACT: OBSERVATIONS ON NASAs MAY 1997 DRAFT STRATEGIC PLAN: NSIAD-97-205R

Bibliogov. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 38 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. GAO reviewed the draft strategic plan submitted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as required by the Government Performance and Results Act. GAO noted that: (1) to its credit, NASA has been actively pursuing a strategic planning process since 1992, before enactment of the Results Act; (2) of the six elements required by the act, four are included in the draft strategic plan--a mission statement, goals and objectives, strategies for achieving the goals and objectives, and a discussion of external factors (discussed in the context of NASAs environmental assessment); (3) two of those four elements have weaknesses, some more significant than others; (4) the other elements--relating annual performance goals to general goals and objectives and a description of program evaluations used to establish general goals and objectives and a schedule for future program evaluations--are not explained in enough detail in the draft plan itself; (5) the draft plan sets forth NASAs primary legislative mandate, the National Aeronautics and Space Act, as well as other key statutory authorities of the agency; (6) for example, as discussed in the plan, the agency carries out its requirement to expand knowledge of the earth through the earth sciences, remote sensing, and upper atmospheric research activities of the Mission to Planet Earth enterprise; (7) though many of NASAs objectives are shared with involve other agencies, the draft plan does not discuss what interagency coordination occurred to address the issues of duplication and overlap; (8) the draft plan does note the importance of working with other agencies in achieving its objectives, and NASA officials stated that coordination has occurred at the program level; (9) these efforts, though, are not discussed in the plan, and coordination...
