It was, however, some time before we could get a ship to our mind; and when we got a vessel, it was not easy to get-English sailors; that is to say, so many as were necessary to proceed on the voyage, and manage the sailors which we should pick up there. A Her s me time we got a mate, a boatswain, and a gunner, English; a Dutch carpenter, and three Portuguese foremast men. With these we found we could do well enough, having Indian seamen, such as they are, to make up. There are so many travellers who have written the history of their voyages and travels this way, that it would be but very little amusement to any body, to give a long account of the places we went to,...
